

Fall/Winter 2017-2018

AP/EN 4050 6.0A (Y)

The Arts of Memory

Course Director:

Julia Creet
344 Stong College
creet@yorku.ca

Delivery Format:

Seminar

Time:

Mondays 8:30-10:30am

Description:

Memory Studies has emerged in recent decades as an interdisciplinary field that spans one of the most complicated and political domains of human thought. Our current intellectual and artistic preoccupation with memory is an inheritance of the 20th century, a century which began with a theory of the self built on memory (psychoanalysis), fell into two world-wars and the inevitable sequences of forgetting and remembering that followed, and then saw the development of radically new and sophisticated physical and electronic archives, which threaten, so theory would have it, to replace human memory altogether. We waver between Plato's ancient concern that writing is a poor substitute for living memory, a form of "hypomnesis," and the "hypermnesis" characteristic of our obsessive collecting and memorial practices of the late twentieth century. Beginning with the classic texts of the ars memoria, "The Arts of Memory" will explore contemporary theories of cultural, collective, archival and literary memory through transhistoric texts and transgeneric materials that have proven iconic to current configurations of memory studies.

Category:

A

Area:

N/A

Period:

N/A

Historical Requirement:

N/A

Requirements:

2 response papers (approx. 750-1000 words) each worth 20% (various dates)
Leading class discussion, based on response papers 20% (various dates)
1 final essay (approx. 2500 words) worth 40%

Reading List:

Charlotte Delbo, Auschwitz and After

Roland Barthes, Camera Lucida

Michael Ondaatje, Running in the Family or Paul Auster, The Invention of Solitude

W.G. Sebald, Austerlitz

Other primary and secondary readings will be available electronically on the course Moodle site.

Open To:

Yr 4 Honours